SKU: GD1310

£1,195.00

An unusual and highly decorative 19th century wirework brass fire guard fender in superb untouched condition.

A sought after piece, very well made with original fine wirework detailing with rope twist drape detail. Built around a wrought iron frame with cast brass top and plinth, sitting on three decorative bun feet to the front and supported by its wrought iron frame at the wall end.

The piece also features a pair of unusual solid brass motif in the form of twin Koi Carp Fish symbol embracing a flower. Koi can be represented in Feng Shui interior design, where its placement is said to attract prosperity and abundance into your home and life. Another meaning is love, fertility and friendship.

A truly unique, decorative piece in its original form with superb untouched patina. In good solid condition.
